4.7. Organisational Set-up and Responsibilities

The arrangements of the governance structures of the support in indirect management will be agreed at the contracting level. They will ensure a seat for EU in the strategic steering committee and ensure that the organisational set-up will include active and meaningful participation of key stakeholders, including rights holders and duty bearers for policy advocacy. The steering committee will indicatively meet on a quarterly basis.

Complementary technical assistance directly managed by EU and coordinated with the pooled fund will ensure first hand control for EU on key matters at stake.

Further complementary support to civil society directly managed by the EU will enhance the EU's key role in monitoring civic space and civil society participation in electoral preparations and processes.

The Action will collaborate with UN agencies and UNMISS to benefit from comparative advantages and areas of expertise. The Action may collaborate with national institutions and entities for the purpose of achieving its objectives. This includes to build national capacities for specific functions, to promote commitment and ownership on the part of government and political leadership, or to strengthen impact at different levels and reach grassroots levels. The Action will also coordinate or partner with other organisations
